

23123 Consumer Psychology, 5ECTS

SP1, 3.8.-29.8.2021

Course description

This course focuses on internal and external concepts in consumer psychology. During the course, you will learn about current research on consumer behavior from a consumer psychology perspective. You will learn about consumer perceptions, how consumers are influenced by external factors, how companies use such influence to their advantage, and to analyze the ethicality of such influences.

Learning goals

You have knowledge about the central theories, concepts, and models in consumer psychology and behavior. You are able to analyze consumers' reactions towards marketing tactics based on knowledge about consumers' psychological processes.

After taking this course, you will be able to

- describe, compare, and use in research key concepts and theories from the fields of psychological and behavioral consumer research
- evaluate the ethicality of marketing tactics based on consumer psychology research

Course workload: 134 hours of which 20 hours in class (2h introduction, 6*3h lectures)

Literature:

Solomon, M.R. (2015). Consumer behavior: Buying, having, and being, 11th edition, or later. Pearson Publishing.

Baker, S., & Martinson, D. L. (2001). The TARES test: Five principles for ethical persuasion. Journal of Mass Media Ethics, 16(2-3), 148-175.

Cialdini, R. B., & Rhoads, K. V. (2001). Human behavior and the marketplace. Marketing Research, 13(3), 8.

Saad, G. (2013). Evolutionary consumption. Journal of Consumer Psychology, 23(3), 351-371

Business press and other material specified by the instructors

Examination

In-course assignments. All the assignments have to be handed in. Assessment as follows:

- Participation in discussion (live/online/forums) 20%
- Quizzes 10%
- Article analyses 20%
- Written pre-class assignments 30%
- Learning diary 20%

Target group	The course can be chosen by third year bachelor students and master's students. This is an advanced, master's level, course.
Examiner	Doctoral Candidate Jori Grym Associate Professor Johanna Gummerus Professor Veronica Liljander
Primary contact information	Jori Grym, jori.grym@hanken.fi Primarily before/after lectures
Course Homepage:	The course homepage is located in the Moodle learning environment. It is compulsory to enrol in Moodle. (https://Moodle.hanken.fi) All registered students will receive the Moodle key by email based on the contact information registered in WebOodi on August 1 at the latest.
Lectures	Make your own schema under the tools menu on the Hanken web. See schedule at the end of this syllabus. You will find more information on the lecture contents in Moodle. All lectures can be watched online either in realtime (recommended) or afterwards. In addition, there are some short videos in Moodle that you need to watch before class.

Working throughout the course

Lectures	It is highly recommended to attend the introduction to the course. Physical attendance to lectures is not possible due to the epidemic. However, attending live via Microsoft Teams highly recommended since much of the learning takes place through interaction in class .
Weekly Handin-Assignments	Short weekly assignments (about 2 pages) including 3 pre-class assignments and 2 written article analysis. The pre-class assignments have to be completed and handed in before class (see assignment instructions and deadlines in Moodle)

NOTE: In order to pass the course, you need to hand in all weekly assignments and the final learning diary and get 50% of the total points. No final exam.

Instructions for the learning diary

The learning diary is your reflection on your own learning, summarized and structured into about 4 pages (minimum 3 and maximum 5). It is not a summary of the course content. Focus on the essential and leave time for a final revision. You can get a maximum of 20 points.

What thoughts on theories, concepts, and topics in relation to consumer psychology have the combination of the literature, assignments and lessons evoked in you? Do not dwell at length on the things that you have known from before, but reflect on new thoughts and discoveries, including things that made you connect in a new way what you thought you knew well. Describe and analyze learning experiences and potential puzzles that made you reflect more deeply on some part of the course themes, and the role of particular sources (books, theses, articles, lessons, discussions) for your learning experience. What inspired you to learn more about a topic, for example, wanting to perform a study of your own (e.g. Master's Thesis or a consultancy study for a company)? The purpose of a learning diary is to make visible how your thoughts about academic research in this field have developed and deepened during the course. What you may consider important for your learning process can be quite different from what others consider important for theirs. Dare to open up your individual reflections.

Use normal font size 12 and 1.5 spacing. Anchor your learning diary, at least partly, in the literature, as well as in the lessons and assignments (while remembering that you are not writing a summary). You need not add a reference list unless you refer to other sources than those that are included in the course. It is important that you use concepts and that you use them correctly.

Evaluation criteria (the whole scale is used) A deep and many-sided reflection and understanding (17-20)

The author has used several perspectives and reflected on many central themes of the course in a personal way. The author has analysed his/her own thinking about academic research in relation to the course literature, lectures, and other assigned readings. The author demonstrates an excellent in-depth ability to analyse the themes of the course in relation to own reflections and to own knowledge. The text demonstrates metalevel analysis of own thinking. The learning diary is exceptionally well written and structured, well anchored in the course literature and uses appropriate concepts correctly. A many-sided reflection and understanding (14-16)

The author has used several perspectives and reflected on several central themes of the course in a personal way. The author has analysed his/her own thinking about academic research in relation to the course literature and other assigned readings. The author demonstrates a good ability to analyse the themes of the course in relation to own reflections and writing. The learning diary is mainly well written and structured, anchored in the literature, and uses appropriate concepts with few mistakes.

Reflection and understanding (12-13)

The author has reflected on central themes of the course and partly analysed his/her own thinking about academic research in relation to the course literature and other assigned readings. The author demonstrates an understanding of the central themes and their relationship with writing a master's thesis. The learning diary is somewhat superficial, or lacking in clarity, or structure.

Superficial reflections and weak understanding (10-11)

The author has a descriptive stance to the course themes. The author does not reflect on and analyse his/her own thinking and experiences of concepts in relation to the course literature. The author cannot express many learning experiences. The learning diary gives the impression of having been written in one go without being based on reflections in relation to the course literature and assignments. The learning diary is superficial, demonstrates superficial learning, or clearly lacking in clarity, or structure. Not acceptable (0-10)

The author does not demonstrate an understanding of the course themes and has not reflected upon the content. The language is poor and it is difficult to follow the arguments in the text.

COURSE SCHEDULE

Time	Place	Instr	Topic	Materials and assignments
Week 1: Assignment deadlines: 1 pre-class assignment (Moodle) and 1 online quiz
Mon 2.8. 16.00-18.00	Microsoft Teams	JGr	Introduction to the course	Syllabus, Moodle
	Online on your own time	JGr	Introduction to the topic of perception and the history of consumer psychology	Moodle-material. Prepare for first pre-class assignment, to be handed in before the lecture on Thursday.
Thu 5.8. 16 - 19	Microsoft Teams	JGr	Perception: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Perceptual process • Sensory systems • Perceptual selection • Interpretation 	Moodle-material, pre-class assignment on perception, and quiz. Solomon, M.R. (2015). Consumer behavior: Buying, having, and being, 11th edition, or later. Pearson Publishing. Chapter 10: Consumer identity: Sex roles and subcultures. Solomon, M.R. (2015). Consumer behavior: Buying, having, and being, 11th edition, or later. Pearson Publishing. Chapter 5: Perception.

Week 2: 2 pre-class assignment and 2 online quizzes

	Online on your own time	JGr	Introduction to the topic of learning and memory	Moodle-material. Prepare for the second pre-class assignment, to be handed in before the lecture on Tuesday. Moodle-material including quiz.
Tue 10.8. 16 - 19	Microsoft Teams	JGr	Learning & Memory: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Learning theories • Memory construction • The role of learning in memory • Flaws of memory • Purchasing behavior 	Solomon, M.R. (2015). Consumer behavior: Buying, having, and being, 11th edition, or later. Pearson Publishing. Chapter 12: Networked consumer behavior: word-of-mouth, social media, and fashion. Solomon, M.R. (2015). Consumer behavior: Buying, having, and being, 11th edition, or later. Pearson Publishing. Chapter 2: Decision making and consumer behavior.
	Online on your own time	JGr	Introduction to the topic of Decisionmaking	Moodle-material. Prepare for the second pre-class assignment, to be handed in before the lecture on Tuesday. Moodle-material including pre-class hand-in-assignment and quiz.

Thu 12.8. 16-19	Microsoft Teams	JGr	Decision-making: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Problem recognition & solving • Information search • Evaluation of alternatives • Product choice • Flaws in the decision-making process 	Solomon, M.R. (2015). Consumer behavior: Buying, having, and being, 11th edition, or later. Pearson Publishing. Chapter 6: Memory.
----------------------------	-----------------	-----	--	--

Week 3: 1 pre-class assignment, 1 article assignments and 1 quiz
	Online on your own time		Introduction to the topic of persuasion	Moodle-material. Prepare for the second pre-class assignment, to be handed in before the lecture on Tuesday.

Tue 17.8. 16-19	Microsoft Teams	JGr	Principles of persuasion <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Reciprocity • Scarcity • Authority • Consistency • Liking • Consensus 	Moodle-material including pre-class assignment on persuasion Solomon, M.R. (2015). Consumer behavior: Buying, having, and being, 11th edition, or later. Pearson Publishing. Chapter 8: Attitudes and Persuasion Cialdini, R. B., & Rhoads, K. V. (2001). Human behavior and the marketplace. Marketing Research, 13(3), 8.
	Online on your own time		Introduction to the topic of evolutionary psychology	Moodle-material.
Thu 19.8. 16 - 19	Microsoft Teams	JGr	Evolutionary basis for consumption <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The reproductive module • The survival module • The kin selection module • The reciprocation module • Proximate and ultimate cause 	Moodle-material, article assignment and quiz. Saad, G. (2013). Evolutionary consumption. Journal of Consumer Psychology, 23(3), 351-371.
Week 3: 1 pre-class assignments, 1 article assignments and 1 quiz

Week 4: 1 article assignment, Deadline for learning diary

Tue 24.8 16 - 19	Microsoft Teams	JGr	Marketing ethics <ul style="list-style-type: none">• Ethical guidelines & laws• Ethics of persuasion• Unethical marketing practices	Moodle-material, article assignment Solomon, M.R. (2015). Consumer behavior: Buying, having, and being, 11th edition, or later. Pearson Publishing. Chapter 7: The self. Solomon, M.R. (2015). Consumer behavior: Buying, having, and being, 11th edition, or later. Pearson Publishing. Chapter 4: Consumer and social well-being Baker, S., & Martinson, D. L. (2001). The TARES test: Five principles for ethical persuasion. Journal of Mass Media Ethics, 16(2-3), 148-175.
-----------------------------	--------------------	-----	---	--

Learning diary deadline on August 29th